

the criticism of Superintendent Hendricks on the safe deposit companies controlled by the Equitable, but it was not considered by the committee in its report, if it is relevant matter.

Mr. Hyde was excused, while George H. Squire, Jr., a stock broker and son of the former financial manager of the Equitable, was called to explain some transactions of his father's. He told how his firm sold stock of the "Lawyers' Title Insurance and Trust Company" for his father's account to the American Deposit and Loan Company.

Profits Went to Squire.

George H. Squire, formerly president of this company, was called, and said that George H. Squire requested that all of this stock offered by his son's firm be purchased. This was done from time to time, and subsequently sold to the Equitable Life at an advance, the profits going to Mr. Squire.

Mr. Hyde was again called and said that the first he had heard of these transactions, he said in answer to Senator Armstrong that his powers of attorney were destroyed when he returned from Europe a year ago, but that he had been made while he was abroad, the situation would be very embarrassing.

After Mr. Hendricks had testified, Mr. Hyde was called again and asked if he heard Mr. Hendricks testify. He replied that he had. He reaffirmed his previous testimony and supplied data about several questions concerning which Mr. Hendricks was interviewed, counsel for Mr. Hyde attempted to cross-examine Mr. Hendricks, but the committee, after consultation, refused permission, whereupon Mr. Hendricks asserted the examination had been conducted in a disorderly manner.

Late in the day Mr. Hyde threw the room into an uproar by asking Mr. Armstrong, who asked Mr. Hyde, "What is the matter with you?" Mr. Hyde was asked when there was no legislation in session, and the Governor was soon to retire. Mr. Hyde replied that some men are more influential and powerful out of office than in.

With the day's session the examination of both Mr. Hyde and Mr. Hendricks was completed, and the next witness who appeared with much interest, is Mr. Odell, who has requested that he be examined.

ST. PETERSBURG, November 15.—Advices from Vladivostok late this afternoon indicate that the mutiny of the soldiers and sailors has been quelled and order partially restored, and are now having agents to send home the rescued and time expired men detained there.

Mr. Greener, the American Consul at Vladivostok, telegraphs that a thousand cosaks have been brought there from the coast of Manchuria and are now patrolling the streets. The local merchants are taking measures for the protection of their property. About 2,000 soldiers have already started home.

The naval club, the girls' gymnasium, and the entire Chinese quarter of Vladivostok were burned to destruction and are now protected by soldiers. The city is comparatively quiet, but there are rumors of more trouble for to-night, although Mr. Greener expresses the opinion that there is no foundation for the reports.

MAYOR JOINS HEARST FOR A SQUARE DEAL

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, November 15.—Mayor McClellan joined with W. R. Hearst to-day in requesting that the Supreme Court grant the application for a writ of mandamus to compel the production of original tally sheets before the board of county canvassers. The application was granted as soon as the Mayor's request was made known at the argument before Justice Pitney. Judge Alton B. Parker, speaking in behalf of the Mayor, said that Mr. McClellan desired there should be full opportunity given to have the will of the voters, as expressed on election day, fully and officially expressed.

Before the mandamus was granted the board of county canvassers had adjourned until to-morrow, awaiting the court's action.

To Open Ballot Boxes.

Following the granting of the mandamus by Justice Amend to compel the production of the original tally sheets, Justice Amend held a hearing to-day on the application of counsel for W. R. Hearst, an order requiring County Clerk Hamilton, of New York, to show cause to-morrow why he should not open the ballot boxes and protested ballots should not be brought before a Justice of the Supreme Court, to be opened and the ballots adjudicated. It is understood that no opposition to this procedure would be made by Alton B. Parker, counsel to Mayor McClellan.

AFTERMATH OF THE FOX HUNT

Middlesex Kennels Return to Massachusetts With Big Retinue.

MR. HIGGINSON A SPORTSMAN

Not At All Cast Down At the Defeat of His English Pack.

(Special from Staff Correspondent.)

UPPERVILLE, VA., Nov. 15.—There is evident here the great calm that always follows a strenuous event, for those who have stopped over for fox hunting until after Thanksgiving Day are enjoying a day of rest.

Horses and hounds were not taken out, and there will probably be no hunting until Saturday.

This morning the Middlesex Hunt party left for Massachusetts with thirty-five horses, fifty hounds, and a great retinue of hunt and personal servants. There were in the party Mr. A. Henry Higginson, master of Middlesex; Mr. and Mrs. Grafton St. L. Abbott, Mrs. Tom Pearce, Mr. Julian Chamberlain, Mr. Leonard A. H. Robert Perkins, Miss Edna Bird, Mr. Charles Bird, Dr. Charles McChesney, of Montreal, and Mr. William L. Mowbray, of Buffalo.

Mr. Higginson was in no way depressed by the decision of the judges giving the fox hunt match to Grafton American hounds over his English pack. It was learned that some thirty-five land owners around Middlesex on yesterday sent Mr. Higginson a written request to take over that hunting section and to establish his pack there. It is not known what action Mr. Higginson will take in the matter, but it is thought that he is not averse to wintering the Middlesex hounds in Pleasant Valley.

During the trip the Middlesex Hunt purchased fifteen hunters from the farm over whose lands they rode, and these have been shipped North with the rest of the string.

Grafton Headquarters.

At "Oakley," the Grafton headquarters, Mr. Henry W. Smith, Mr. James A. Roosevelt, Mr. Paul Whiting and Mr. Madison Richardson, all of Massachusetts, and Mr. and Mrs. Westcott Davis, of Boston, will continue the close of the season.

At "Wellsbourne," Mr. R. Hunter Dulaney, Miss Terry Dulaney and Misses Ethel and Neville Lemmon will remain until after Thanksgiving for the hunting. Mr. and Mrs. James K. Madrox have returned to Worcester, where they will stay on Friday, and hunt to the members of the Worcester Drag Hounds.

Mr. Prince has shipped his hunters to New York, and Mrs. Henderson and Mr. Edward Gay Butler, of Clark county, have departed homeward.

On yesterday afternoon as an end to the hard work of the match, Mr. Lewis Leath challenged Mr. Arthur Marshall to a jumping contest, the conditions of which were that the man who fell first lost the money, and the jumping to continue until one came a cropper.

After larking over all the high walls clearing all manner of neck-breaking obstacles, Mr. Leath came to grief over a stone wall, and the stake went to Mr. Marshall.

Satisfactory Award.

The award of the match to the American hounds has given universal satisfaction here, where the feeling was neutral, both Grafton and Middlesex Hunts belonging to Massachusetts.

Dr. Charles McChesney, of Montreal, one of the judges, known as "Blain Man," has been the life of the meet for his stories and songs as clever as the two Canadian hunters that carried him away to the front after hounds.

Last night Mr. Higginson's horses were attacked by the Cameron Run Hunt Club, and a day of $750 was won out by Mr. Courtland H. Smith and the Messrs. Porter. Mr. Higginson declared that he did not owe the hunt a cent, but gave bond so that his horses could leave for Boston.

Mr. Courtland H. Smith also brought suit against Mrs. Tom Pearce to enforce payment for a horse he had sold her, and which she returned, claiming him to be unsound. The Middlesex crowd say they have had more suits brought against them during their two weeks' stay in Virginia than in all the rest of their lives.

THREE REAR ADMIRALS ON MERIWETHER COURT

Besides Officers of High Rank, the Younger Naval Element is Represented.

WASHINGTON, November 15.—Official announcement was made at the Navy Department to-day of the detail for the court-martial that is to try Midshipman Minor Meriwether, Jr., on charges growing out of the recent glove fight with Midshipman Branch at the Naval Academy at Annapolis. The department has taken the maximum number of thirteen for this trial, because of its importance, and has placed three rear-admirals on the court. The detail follows:

Rear-Admiral Francis M. Ramsay, retired, president; Rear-Admiral Alexander H. McCormick, retired; Rear-Admiral Albert S. Barker, retired; Commodore Robert L. Phythian, retired; Captain Richard Walcott, Captain Samuel P. Conly, Commander Sidney A. Staunton, Commander Bradley A. Fluke, Lieutenant Commander John F. Craven, Lieutenant Orton P. Jackson, Lieutenant Riley McLean, Lieutenant Edward T. Connelley, Judge Advocate Captain Adolph Marx.

At the Navy Department the court is regarded as exceptionally strong and well balanced. Attention was called to the fact that while there are three rear-admirals on the court, there are three lieutenants, so that the younger element in the service is represented. There are three officers on the court who have served as superintendent of the academy—Rear-Admiral Ramsey, Commodore Phythian and Captain Walcott.

Rear-Admiral Ramsay was a member of the Schley court of inquiry, and Captain Marx was judge advocate of the court of inquiry that investigated the blowing up of the Maine, superintendent of the academy, and has taken action in the cases of all those who participated in any way in the fight and has ordered the execution of disciplinary measures.

ALDERMEN NON-CONCURE

The Board of Aldermen Monday evening non-concurred in the City Council resolution refusing to pay the Virginia Passenger and Power Company's October bill for electric lights until better lights were furnished. The Board ordered that the bill be paid.

Major A. R. Moody was unanimously elected Alderman from Second Ward, to succeed Mr. W. E. Ramey, who was elected city treasurer last Tuesday.

A cavalry company is now being organized by some men who are good horsemen. General Smith Bolling, who was a Confederate cavalry officer, has consented to drill the new company. The organization of a new artillery company is also proposed, and will very probably be effected, especially if the workers for the building of a large public hall for use as an armory and convention hall accomplish their purpose.

The following cases were argued and submitted:

No. 63, William J. Carter, F. L. Webster, et al, appellants, vs. The United States, appellees; appeal from the Circuit Court at Baltimore, Md. Argued by J. Stuart Tompkins, of New York City, for the appellants, and by John C. Rosen, U. S. attorney, of Baltimore, Mr. for the appellees, and submitted.

No. 60, The United States, plaintiff in error, vs. John E. Smith, appellee; appeal from the District Court at Charleston, S. C. Submitted on briefs.

No. 618, William F. Stone, collector, appellant, vs. Frank H. Smith, appellee; appeal from the Circuit Court at Baltimore, Md. Argued by John C. Rosen, U. S. attorney, for the appellant, no counsel appearing for the appellee.

Court announced its opinion in the following case:

No. 579, Stuart Wood, appellant, vs. W. J. Eskins, et al, appellees; appeal from the Circuit Court of the United States for the Southern District of West Virginia, at Charleston. Opinion by Judge Johnston, reversed and remanded with a modification of the decree of the lower court.

Dissenting Opinion.

In No. 581, Joseph H. Savage, petitioner, vs. M. Adah, Savage, respondent, decided at this term in favor of the respondent, Judge Pritchard has filed a dissenting opinion.

In 1897, the respondent was divorced from the petitioner and by a decree required to pay her $600 a year alimony. In lieu of the alimony Savage agreed to give his wife a bond to the effect that he would transfer to her a certain piece of Washington Street property, in order to remove the burden of a lien on his real estate. He went into bankruptcy and the creditors are now claiming that this said Washington Street property, in order to remove the burden of a lien on his real estate, was sold adversely to the contention of the creditors and this court sustains that position. Judge Pritchard, in his dissenting opinion, contends that when the parties remarried the new contract to marry and its consummation constituted a waiver on the part of her and discharged the property placed in the hands of the trustee of any lien and the security was lost. "Suppose that no deed of trust had been executed prior to the date of remarriage, which could be considered the lien, which would be created by virtue of the decree, would continue to exist, notwithstanding the remarriage of the parties? Most assuredly such contention should be untenable. In view of the fact that such remarriage was sufficient in itself to render inoperative the decree by which alimony was brought into existence and upon which it was based, and therefore, the property should be sold for the benefit of the creditors."

It is stated that he handled more cattle than any one in this section of the State, and he was largely interested in Highland, Bath and Augusta counties. He was highly esteemed and conducted his business mainly by verbal contract, and in a recent lawsuit not a single witness out of over one hundred with whom he had verbal contracts and business dealing, would testify that he would not live up to his agreements. He has a number of relatives in this county.
